PROFILE

Graphic designer and visual artist — cover art, posters, visual identity, and promotional imagery for music and culture. My photography background is built into the process: light, composition, and atmosphere are decisions, not finishing touches.

I work best on projects where concept matters — where the image needs to say something, not just look good. Every project comes with structured deliverables — reference boards, versioned presentations, organized files. The concept has to be grounded in something; the process has to be readable by the client.
